

DILLON MAY PROVE HARD ENEMY FOR MORAN WHEN THEY BATTLE

Little Giant Killer Is Now Preparing to Go After the Big Moran and May Give Him a Real Contest; Death of Rudy Unholz Proves Serious Loss to the Ring in Which He Loved to Battle.

BY T. S. ANDREWS.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 27.—Will Jack Dillon, the Hoosier champion, in the light heavyweight class, be able to live up to his reputation of "Jack the Giant Killer" when he meets Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, in a ten round decision bout at Brooklyn, N. Y., the night of June 29? There will be quite a discrepancy between the two men as to weight—probably 40 pounds—but there are many instances where smaller men than Dillon have defeated fighters as big or bigger than Moran.

When Jack Dempsey, the famous "Nonpareil", was at his best he gave away from 30 to 60 pounds when he battled against such big fellows as Mike Boden, Jack Langdon, Frank Roserworth, Dominick McAfferty, Mike Donovan and others. Dempsey never weighed more than 145 to 150. Moran scales 210 at weight and he will doubtless reach the limit for his match with Dillon. His showing against Jose Willard in New York last spring was good, but nothing extra, despite the fact that he went the ten rounds. Jose is a slow starter at best and he did not rush matters that night, owing to an injured hand, but had he done so it is certain that Frank would have had a hard time staying the limit.

Dillon Keeps Covered.

He may fight differently with Dillon as he will not have the size and weight to go against, but again he will find Jack more active and liable to take advantage of openings which Willard did not. Moran has a good wallop, as his knockout of Jim Coffey proved, but he will find Dillon a much harder man to connect with than Coffey, for Jack has a knack of keeping well covered at all times, even when rushing in himself. Dillon has battled some tough propositions during the past year in going against such men as Tom Cowder, Porky Flynn, Al Morton, Jim Flynn, Battling Levinsky, Gunboat Smith, Bob Devere, Bob Mohr and Billy Miske; besides heavyweights of a fair variety. With Dillon fighting carefully it looks like a cinch that the bout will go the full ten rounds, with possibly a win for Jack on points and aggressiveness. Moran can take a world of punishment and for that reason looks like a sure thing bet for the ton. A clean-cut victory either way would do the game a lot of good.

Wild as a Good Flyweight.

Judging from reports about the fighting ability of little Jimmy Wilde, the British flyweight champion, he would make a wonderful opponent for Johnny Erbe of St. Paul, challenger for the bantamweight title. The last of this month Wilde is such boys as Jimmy Pappas, the southern flyweight, Young Zulu Kid of Brooklyn and Pete Herman of New Orleans. There have been no many nice things said about Wilde from different boxing authorities, that there is no doubt he must be a wonderfully clever boy. Ed Dyer, my London correspondent, has just written me in regard to Wilde as follows:

"I attended the contest the other night between Jimmy Wilde and Tommy Harrison, and the former won easily. Wilde gave away 14 pounds in weight, but it did not seem to bother
